CONTENTS

Preface to the Third Edition xix
Preface to the First Edition xxi
Acknowledgments xxiii

CHAPTER 1

“SO YOU WANT TO STUDY MEDIATION?”
An Introduction to theProcesses of Mediation and the Skills of Effective Mediators 1

§1.1 What This Book Is About, and a Word on its Perspective 1
§1.2 What Is Mediation? 3
§1.3 Where Does Mediation Fit in the Range of Dispute Resolution Processes? What Are its Distinctive Characteristics, Advantages and Disadvantages for Potential Users? 4
   Rosa Lopez and Teixtron, Inc. 4
§1.4 Why Are People, Courts and Other Institutions Increasingly Using Mediation? What Concerns Might This Raise? 9
§1.5 The Mediator’s Role and Function: An Introduction 12
§1.6 The Skills of Effective Mediators: An Introduction 14
§1.7 How This Book Is Organized 15
   Video Case Summaries 15

CHAPTER 2

NEGOTIATIONS, AND WHY THEY FAIL 21

§2.1 What Does it Mean to Say that Negotiations Fail? 21
§2.2 Introduction to Negotiation Theory: Competitive Versus Problem-Solving Negotiation 26
§2.3 Basics of Competitive (Distributive) Bargaining 28
   Bellow & Moulton, The Lawyering Process 29
§2.4 Basics of Problem-Solving (Integrative) Negotiation 34
§2.5 Strategic Barriers to Settlement and the Mediator’s Role 39
§2.6 Psychological Barriers to Settlement 40
| §2.7 | Cognitive and Motivational Barriers to Settlement: Biases that Distort our Judgment | 49 |
| §2.7.1 | Distortions in Developing and Evaluating a Case for Settlement | 51 |
| §2.7.2 | Distortions in Planning for Negotiation: The Problem of the Mythical Fixed Pie | 54 |
| §2.7.3 | Distortions at the Negotiating Table: Misinterpreting Opponents’ Motives and Misevaluating Their Settlement Offers | 55 |
| §2.8 | Cultural and Structural Barriers to Settlement | 61 |

CHAPTER 3

THE ROLE OF THE MEDIATOR: Differing Approaches, Fundamental Norms

| §3.1 | The Many Faces of Mediation | 65 |
| §3.2 | Differing Conceptions of the Mediator’s Role: Historical Roots | 68 |
| §3.3 | The Mediator’s Goals in Action: A Case of a Broken Car Mirror | 70 |
| §3.4 | Mediation Outcomes: Should “Solving the Problem” Be the Goal? If So, What Problem and What Kind of Solution? | 72 |
| §3.5 | The Transformation Objective: Emphasizing Personal Growth and Improved Communication | 74 |
| §3.6 | From Goals to Actions: How Much Influence Should the Mediator Exert? | 76 |
| §3.7 | The Facilitative-Evaluative Debate: Case Examples and a Hypothetical Discussion An Imaginary Discussion between Facilitative (F) and Evaluative (E) School Representatives | 82 |
| §3.8 | Three Fundamental Norms: Self-Determination, Impartiality and Neutrality | 87 |
| §3.9 | “Context-Driven” Mediation: Employing the Right Approach at the Right Time | 89 |
| §3.10 | Variables in Determining the Right Goal and Role Review Problem | 91 |

CHAPTER 4

PREPARING TO MEDIATE

| §4.1 | Introduction: Can Mediations Be Planned? | 97 |
| §4.2 | The Importance of Planning: Providing Procedural Justice | 98 |
| §4.3 | A Key Determinant of the Extent of Planning: How the Case Got to Mediation | 98 |
| §4.4  | Is This Case Appropriate for Mediation? | 100  |
| §4.5  | Am I the Right Mediator? | 102  |
| §4.6  | Should There Be a Written Mediation Agreement? | 106  |
| §4.7  | Who Should (and Who Should Not) Be Present at the Mediation? | 107  |
| §4.8  | How Should the Physical Setting Be Arranged to Enhance the Likelihood of Success? | 110  |
| §4.9  | How Formal or Informal Should I be? | 115  |
| §4.10 | When Should the Mediation Take Place? How Long Will it Last? | 116  |
| §4.11 | Substantive Preparations: Anticipating and Analyzing the Problem | 119  |
| §4.12 | Should This Case be Co-Mediated? Should I Have Contacts with the Parties Before Convening the Press? | 123  |
| §4.13 | Should I Have Contacts with the Parties Before Convening the Process? | 125  |
|       | Review Problem | 128  |

CHAPTER 5

MEDIATION AS A STRUCTURED PROCESS

| §5.1  | Introduction | 131  |
| §5.2  | The Need for Structure: Lessons from a Story | 133  |
| §5.3  | The Progressive Structure of a Model Mediation | 138  |
| §5.4  | The Limits of a Model Structure | 140  |

CHAPTER 6

OPENING THE PROCESS, DEFINING THE PROBLEM

| §6.1  | The Mediation Begins | 141  |
| §6.1.1 | Goals for the Opening Stage | 141  |
| §6.1.2 | Begin Together or Separately? | 142  |
| §6.2  | The Mediator’s Introduction | 142  |
|       | Video Illustrations | 144  |
| §6.3  | A Key Process Choice: To Start in Joint Session or Caucus? | 147  |
| §6.4  | Developing Information: Mediation as an Interview | 149  |
| §6.6  | Inviting and Assisting the Participants’ Opening Statements | 153  |
| §6.6.1 | In General, Begin with Very Open Questions | 153  |
| §6.6.2 | The Parties’ Opening Statements: Who Gets to Speak First? | 156  |
| §6.6.3 | Responding to Initial Party Narratives | 158  |
| §6.7  | Throughout the Process: The Critical Importance of Good Listening | 160  |
§6.8  A Brief Note on Note-Taking

§6.9  Encouraging an Unstructured Conversation: The Process of “Exchange”

§6.10  Key Communication Enhancing Interventions

§6.10.1  Establish Empathy and Encourage Communication Through Active Listening

§6.10.2  Decrease Perceptual Barriers by Pointing Out Commonalities

§6.10.3  Reduce Perceptual Distortions by Clarifying Meaning

§6.10.4  Reduce the Sting of Angry, Negative Statements by “Productive Reframing”

§6.10.5  Reduce Tension by Coaching People to Express their Anger Productively

§6.10.6  Ensure Balance by Enforcing Ground Rules

§6.11  The Challenges of Multi-Tasking in the Opening State of Mediation

Review Problem

CHAPTER 7

EXPANDING INFORMATION

§7.1  Introduction

§7.2  The Mediator’s Goals in Information Expansion

§7.3  A Model of Information Expansion in Mediation

§7.4  Organizing the Inquiry

§7.4.1  Begin by Fleshing out the Parties’ Own Statements, Ideas and Feelings

§7.4.2  Focus on Both the Past and the Future

§7.4.3  In General, Question Topically, Not Chronologically

§7.5  Beyond What the Parties Offer: Goal-Driven Information Categories and a Logical Progression for Asking About Them

§7.5.1  Probe to Increase Empathy and Mutual Understanding

§7.5.2  Probe for More Issues, More People and More Resources

§7.5.3  Probe for Future Dealings and Interdependencies

§7.5.4  Probe for Readiness: Ensuring that the Matter is Ripe for Mediation

§7.5.5  Inquire about Previous Discussions of the Dispute and Past Negotiations

§7.5.6  Inquire about Other Persons Who Must Be Satisfied with a Proposed Resolution

§7.5.7  Probe for Needs, Interests and Priorities
§7.5.8  Probe for Uncertainty and Doubt  208
§7.5.9  Probe for Negotiation Norms, Standards and Past Practices  213
§7.5.10  Probe for Alternatives to a Negotiated Settlement and the Impact of Non-Resolution  214
§7.6  Beyond Categories: The Role of Intuition and Curiosity  216
§7.7  Caucusing During Information Gathering  217
§7.8  Conducting the Information Caucus  219

CHAPTER 8
IDENTIFYING AND FRAMING NEGOTIATING ISSUES, ORGANIZING AN AGENDA  225
§8.1  Introduction  225
§8.2  Issue Identification and Agenda Construction: The Benefits  226
§8.3  What Is a “Mediable” (Negotiable) Issue?  227
§8.4  Proposing and Framing Mediation Issues  232
§8.5  How Negotiation Agendas Emerge  234
§8.6  Constructing an Agenda: Complexity vs. Manageability  237
§8.7  Sequencing a Multi-Issue Agenda  238
Review Problem  243

CHAPTER 9
GENERATING MOVEMENT THROUGH PROBLEM-SOLVING AND PERSUASION  245
§9.1  Introduction  245
§9.2  The Prevalence of Persuasion in Mediation; Persuasion and Problem-Solving Defined  245
§9.3  Effective Persuasion: A Conceptual Overview  247
§9.4  Setting the Table for Persuasion: “Conditioning” the Parties  251
§9.5  Generating Movement: A “Progressive” Model of Problem-Solving and Persuasion  256
§9.5.1  Persuasion Based on Perspective-Taking: Role Reversal  257
§9.5.2  Persuasion Based on “Considering the Opposite”  259
§9.5.3  Persuasion Through Healing: Apology  261
§9.5.4  Persuasion by Appealing to Interests: Problem-Solving  265
§9.5.5  Persuasion Through Doubt: Providing Feedback and Evaluation  267
Review Problem  275
CHAPTER 10
CONDUCTING THE BARGAINING, DEALING WITH IMPASSE

§10.1 Introduction 277
§10.2 Conducting the Actual Bargaining: A Range of Formats 277
§10.3 Face-to-Face Negotiations 278
§10.4 Caucused Negotiation or “Shuttle Diplomacy” 279
§10.5 Group Brainstorming: Multiplying Options Through Collaboration 281
§10.6 Using Mixed Negotiation Formats 284
§10.7 Conducting the Actual Bargaining: The Mediator’s Role 285
§10.8 What Offers and Concessions Will Be Made, and When? 286
§10.9 Communicating Offers: How Will They Be Framed and Justified, and by Whom? 289
§10.10 How Will Offers Be Received and Evaluated? 292
§10.11 In General: Keeping the Talks Moving and Avoiding “No”: Varied Approaches 294
§10.12 Dealing with Impasses 297
  §10.12.1 Step One: Analyze the Case Objectively to Determine Whether it “Should” Settle 298
  §10.12.2 Step Two: When Facing an Apparent Impasse, Analyze and Address the Remaining Barriers to Settlement 300
§10.13 When Time is Running Out: “End Game” Settlement Techniques 306
§10.14 Some Final Thoughts on Impasse 308

CHAPTER 11
CONCLUDING THE MEDIATION

§11.1 Introduction 311
§11.2 The Importance of Closure 311
§11.3 Formalizing Agreements: Is a Writing Needed? 313
§11.4 Who Should Draft the Agreement? 314
§11.5 Drafting Settlement Agreements: Principles and Objectives 315
  Settlement Agreement: Wilson v. DiLorenzo 316
§11.6 Better than Nothing: Partial or Interim Agreements 325
§11.7 When No Resolution Is Reached 326
Review Problem 328
CHAPTER 12
THE ETHICS OF MEDIATING 331
§12.1 Introduction: Is Mediation a Regulated Profession? 331
The Model Standards of Conduct for Mediators (August 2005) 333
§12.2 Should I Mediate this Case? Issues of Competence, Conflicts of Interest and Disclosure 337
Problem One: What Must the Mediator Disclose? 337
Problem Two: What if I Know One of the Parties? 338
§12.3 Do I Have any Responsibility for the “Fairness” of the Parties’ Agreement? 338
Problem Four: “Informational” Power Balancing? 343
Problem Five: Power Balancing by Negotiation Coaching? 343
§12.4 Mediation and the Problem of Criminal and Other Unlawful Conduct 346
Problem Six: Problematic Agreements 346
§12.5 Ethical and Policy Issues Regarding Confidentiality 349
Problem Seven: Describing Mediation Confidentiality 353
Problem Eight: Confidentiality and Discovery 354
§12.6 Pursuing Settlement: What Are the Ethical Limits? 356
Problem Nine: Mediator Pressure and Party Self-Determination 356
Problem Ten: “Move Things Along” 358
Problem Eleven: The Mediator as Fact Investigator 358
Problem Twelve: Mediator Non-Disclosure of Information 359
Problem Thirteen: Tailoring Legal Evaluations 361
§12.7 Self-Determined Decisions: Addressing Advisor Interference 363
Problem Fourteen: Circumventing the Lawyer 363
§12.8 Mediators Crossing Professional Lines 363
§12.9 On Developing Judgment: Some Concluding Thoughts 365

CHAPTER 13
REPRESENTING CLIENTS IN MEDIATION 367
§13.1 Introduction 367
A Campus Death: The Yanni Case 368
§13.2 Deciding Whether to Enter Mediation: The Roles of Lawyer and Client 369
Problem One: Counseling About Choice of Process 373
§13.3 Initiating Mediation 374
Problem Two: Proposing Mediation 374
Problem Three: Choosing the Right Mediator 376
§13.4 Preparing for the Proceedings 376
Problem Four: Who Should Attend? 377
Defendant’s Confidential Memorandum to the Mediator 379
§13.5 Preparing the Client for Mediation
Problem Five: The Client’s Role at the Mediation
Problem Six: Establishing Settlement Authority
Preparing the Client for Mandatory Mediation: What Constitutes “Good Faith” Participation?
§13.6 Developing an Overall Negotiation Strategy
Problem Seven: A Plan for the Yanni Mediation
§13.7 At the Table: Representing the Client’s Interests
Problem Eight: Party Opening in Yanni
§13.7.1 Enlisting the Mediator’s Help in the Bargaining Process
§13.7.2 Suggesting Changes to the Game
§13.8 Closing the Circle: Process Pluralism Revisited

Appendix A  Video Clip Transcripts for Analysis
Appendix B  Model Standards of Conduct for Mediators (September 2005)
Appendix C  Model Standards of Practice for Family and Divorce Mediation (2001)
Appendix D  Uniform Mediation Act (Excerpts)
Appendix E  Selected Excerpts, Delaware Lawyers’ Rules of Professional Conduct (as amended through May 2010)
Appendix F  Tolman Screening Model (Modified)
Appendix G  Sample Agreements to Mediate
Video Clip Index
Index